

presents

Diversity Series, Spring 2011

Program

Diversity and Globalization: Challenges

Mohammed Baqer, a senior student, Department of Sociology, SUNY College at Oneonta
James Henry, a junior student, Department of Sociology, SUNY College at Oneonta

Emancipating Multicultural Education from Multiculturalism

Jeffrey K. Pegram, Department of Education at Hartwick College

Prof. Pegram is a native of Durham, North Carolina. He received his Ph.D. in Education Policy and Leadership from the University of Maryland. His scholarship draws on political philosophy, US ethnic studies, and liberal theology as lenses for conceptualizing educational issues. Pegram's research and teaching interests include education for democratic citizenship, religion and civic virtue, the ethical dimensions of teaching, and multicultural education.

Time and Location:

May 3, 2011

5:00-6:30 pm

The Craven Lounge, Morris Conference Center

Everyone is welcome

Light refreshment will be provided.

The series is sponsored by the Division of Behavioral & Applied Science and Center for Social Science Research.