SURVIVAL ENGLISH

(TOPICS PRESENTED IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER)
Introduction to Survival English

The Survival English section of Adult Help is a guide for the teacher in the task of selecting subject matter for lessons. Once proficiency level has been established and student interest indicated regarding subject matter, the teacher's job is to narrow the focus of a subject area to specific goals, vocabulary, and methods of instruction. A number of common "Survival English" topics have been chosen and are presented in alphabetical order (not in order of priority). Each of the topics have suggestions for goals, but the task of deciding the level of difficult appropriate to the student(s) will be an individual decision on the part of the teacher and would be difficult to include in this resource. However, sample lessons have been included at various levels of difficulty to guide the teacher's thoughts when selecting lesson materials and specific teaching methods.

Young Adult HELP is not intended as a course text. It is meant to be used as a core to the Survival English subject matter of a Migrant ESL program, and should be supplemented by various texts or teacher made materials as student needs warrant.
